It truly does take a village to raise a child. Parents, mental health / helping professionals, early childhood educators, early years specialists, caregivers and teachers all play a vital role in supporting the growth and healthy development of our preschoolers & young children. In Ontario, many of our youngsters are in childcare environments, and we continue to move towards full-day kindergarten with somewhere around 50,000 of our four-and-five year olds attending full-day programs as of September 2011.

In this presentation, Dr. Neufeld will focus on making sense of the preschooler & young child, leading us into a grounded understanding of their inner landscape. A foremost authority on child development, Dr. Neufeld will provide pivotal insight into the often perplexing behaviors that cross our environments including; impulsiveness, shyness, separation anxieties, egocentrism, aggression, resistance, oppositionality and more. Today's presentation will be an invaluable resource for all those who support the healthy development of preschoolers & young children, revealing critical implications for parenting, teaching, programming, early intervention and treatment.
